Dennis Underwood has a unique background because not only is he an ordained minister with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, but he is also an educator. He became a Mormon at the age of 20 and has been a minister since 1975. He knows personally how college kids often go searching and questioning faith an religion. Currently Dennis is employed at the University of Michigan-Dearborn Success Center as a Counselor, and is an adjunct Instructor of Psychology at HFCC. He has worked at both institutions for many years, and has performed a variety of student service roles at UM-D such as an admissions counselor, therapist, and provider of support services to veterans and the disabled. His background also includes working as a probation officer, high school counselor, junior high teacher, and being a veteran of the Vietnam War.

This lecture will be of special interest to students and classes from the World Religions, Political Science, Sociology, Psychology, Anthropology, History, Criminal Justice, Geography, Economics, Philosophy, English, Education, Speech, Philosophy, College Success, and Counseling.
