

Are you interested in studying culture and the Arts?

Would you like to listen to good music?

Are you looking to fulfill your humanities requirements?

Enroll in Henry Ford College's new Music Course:
MUS 154: ARAB MUSIC APPRECIATION

MUS 154 is a course that highlights the basic principles of Arab music while allowing students to gain a deeper understanding of the variations of Arab culture through its music. The course includes a basic introduction to various instruments in the Middle East, a look at the art of improvisation in Arab music, a familiarization with influential Arab musical pieces, and exploration of cross-cultural influences in music between Western and Arab culture.

Taught by the National Arab Orchestra's founder and music director, Michael Ibrahim.
A dynamic conductor and recognized innovator in the Arab music circuit.

Questions? Dr. Michael Daher: mdaher@hfcc.edu or (313) 845 6460

---

MUS-154: Arab Music Appreciation is a 12-week course at Henry Ford College. Classes are held on Tue & Thu from 9.00 AM – 10.40 AM in Fine Arts Bldg. F-110. The course starts on February 4, 2020. Register today!